

Your Book a TV Pilot

Wednesday, June 26, 2013 3:59 PM

From: "PublishAmerica Special Services" <robin@publishamerica.com>To:

Dear

My name is Robin and I am one of your Special Services Coordinators. I wanted to let you know about some of our current marketing opportunities. Below you will find information on our Summer Review and TVPitch options. In addition, I can also help you with discounted book pricing and other services.

TVPitch:

Many authors dream of having their work made into a movie or television show. If you are like most authors, at some point someone has told you that your book would be perfect for a TV mini-series. On the Lifetime channel maybe. Or perhaps reality TV. How about the next big children's show? Our Special Services Department is working hard to put together a presentation that pitches PublishAmerica books to the networks that could make such a dream come true.

This optional service is available to you for only $89. Our team will then write up a proposal for your book with a brief synopsis and explanation of why we think your book should be considered and who the audience should be.

When activating this opportunity you must choose one option from the list below that you feel would best fit your book. Also listed are the networks that each presentation will go to.

Mini-Series: ABC, NBC, CBS and Lifetime

Reality TV: Bravo, MTV, CMT, Fox and E!

Documentary: History Channel, Discovery Channel, National Geographic and Military Channel

Children's: Disney Channel, Cartoon Network and Nickelodeon

Summer Review:

Have a professional review of your book done. In the past few years PublishAmerica reviewers such as Jaime Polychrones or Miranda Prather have seen their reviews distributed all over the world, from Beijing, China to, recently, Book Expo America in New York. Later this week our book reviews will be distributed at the American Library Association convention in Chicago. Once completed a copy of your review will be sent to you via email. You may choose to have that same review posted to either your book's page on Amazon.com or posted on Goodreads, the ultimate online book club.

Pricing for the review and your email copy: $49

To include posting on 1 site (you choose Amazon or Goodreads): $59

To include posting on both sites: $64

Call me today to activate either or both of these exceptional opportunities for your book. As always, special discounts are available for multiple titles. I can be reached Monday thru Friday between 8:00am and 5:00pm at (240)285-9356. You can also simply reply to this email with the best time to contact you.

I look forward to working with you.

Robin

Special Services Coordinator

PublishAmerica