

YAHOO! MAIL

Print - Close Window

Date: Thu, 26 Jul 2007 15:04:16 -0400
To:
From: "PublishAmerica Acquisitions" <jcadle@publishamerica.com>
Subject: Don Davidson: The Eternal Perspective: Essays on the Truth of Christianity by a Former Skeptic

Dear Mr. Davidson:

I am happy to inform you that PublishAmerica has decided to give your book the chance it deserves. We are offering to publish "The Eternal Perspective: Essays on the Truth of Christianity by a Former Skeptic".

As this is an important moment, and an important message, please read this email completely from start to finish.

An email will follow this one with the sample contract attached for your review. If you do not receive the email with the attached sample contract in twenty-four hours, please contact me, so I can resend the document via another method.

I will be happy to answer any questions you may have concerning the contract. The main terms are that we will pay you climbing royalties starting at 8%, you retain the copyright, and you also retain all movie and audio rights. A symbolic $1 advance underlines that all financial risk is carried by the Publisher, as we firmly believe it should be.

Our Production team is able to accept a maximum of 15 black and white images/photos per manuscript and only if they meet our criteria for usable publication and print. Please note: it is at the ultimate discretion of the publisher (our Production department) if an image can (or cannot) be implemented into the final printing of the book due to our printing capabilities. Once the signed contract has been processed in our offices, you will be contacted by our Production department regarding "the next step" for your book in the publishing process (they can advise you on the images in the manuscript and how they will be handled).

Upon receiving your e-mail in acceptance with the terms, we will forward the final contract documents to you via regular mail for your signature. Along with your e-mail please include your legal name, current address, telephone number, age and title of work as you would like it to appear on the final contract. Please note that once you have requested that we send the official contract, we cannot further amend the terms. We strongly advise that you read <http://www.publishamerica.com/faqs.htm> before signing your contract. Here we address frequently asked questions about, among other issues, why we never charge our authors any fees, why bookstores cannot possibly stock all new books, and why we believe it is a good thing that bookstores can return unsold books to PublishAmerica.

Please also be advised that PublishAmerica will generally work only with material that has never previously been published. If some of your work has been posted on the Internet or otherwise published, you will need to replace this material.

Once the signed contract has been processed in our offices, you will be contacted by our Production department regarding "the next step" for your book in the publishing process. Please feel free to e-mail any concerns or questions dealing with the terms of the contract to jcadle@publishamerica.com. Also, please visit <http://www.publishamerica.com/shopping/> to see what our books are about, how we price them, and what they look like. You will find many thousands of books there!

Welcome to PublishAmerica, and congratulations on what promises to be an exciting time ahead.

Sincerely,

Janis Cadle
Acquisitions Department
PublishAmerica
www.publishamerica.com

7/26/2007