

PUBLISHAMERICA

We treat our authors the old-fashioned way — we pay them.

P.O. Box 151 • Frederick, Maryland 21705 • (301) 695-1707 • support@publishamerica.com • Fax (301) 631-9073

Dear

In accordance with Par. 10 of your contract, enclosed you find your complimentary author copies of The Eternal Perspective: Essays on the Truths of Christianity by a Former Skeptic.

This is an important moment in an author's life. To see your own book for the very first time may be an unforgettable and unique experience, one that on behalf of all of us at PublishAmerica I wholeheartedly congratulate you on. Many authors tell us that they make it a day of celebration, befitting a life-long dream that has come true. I hope that you do, too!

During the final stages of the production process, you have reviewed and finalized the text proofs, and you have inspected the final cover design. This end product should conform to what you saw. Deviations happen only extremely rarely, but if this should be the case, please let us know right away.

Finally, I would be amiss if I did not bring the second part of your contract's Par. 10 to your attention. It outlines your special author discounts should you ever elect to purchase copies of the book. Please note that you are under no obligation whatsoever, at any time, to buy your own book.

However, we find that many authors prefer to have some copies on hand, for an array of reasons. If indeed this applies to you as well, let me add just a little to today's celebration by offering you a time-limited, one-time 50 percent discount on your first order of 50 or more copies. And if you choose to take advantage of this offer, you may also order your own copy of The Published Author's Guide to Promotion at a 50 percent discount, for $9.95, written by 90 of your fellow PublishAmerica authors, is subtitled "Marketing Tips by Published Authors". This informative book deals with virtually every aspect of being a published author in the spotlight. Also available is a newly released book "How To Upset a Goliath Book Biz: PublishAmerica: The Inside Story of an Underdog with a Bite", for $9.95, written by our very own Willem Meiners, CEO of PublishAmerica. This book tells the story of how one company opened the door to the publishing world and made the dream of thousands a reality by helping them publish their own book.

Please call us to place your order at (301) 695-1707 within ten days upon receiving this letter, and you're all set.

And now, hang out the flag. Today is the day you can really say, "I am now a published author!"

Congratulations!

Your Author Support Team
PublishAmerica, LLLP